WHAT THE SHOPS HAVE TO OFFER FOR CHRISTMAS.

BUT twelve days now remain before Christmas Day, and extensive preparations have been made by the principal Malton and Norton tradesmen to cope with the Yuletide demand. Christmas has many features peculiar to itself, not the least of which is the giving of presents. Articles for young and old will be required, and we are sure those desirous of bestowing tokens of affection on their relatives and friends will be more than delighted at the excellent array of seasonable articles presented for their inspection by the enterprising local business men.

MESSRS. FITCH AND CO. Messrs. Fitch and Co., the fashion specialists, drawers and house furnishings, are making special displays at their extensive establishments in the Market-place; and all goods are being offered at popular prices. It is certain that the Market-place will be the centre of interest to ladies during the days proceeding Christmas. This well-known firm announces that included in their stocks is everything for ladies' and children's wear, everything for household furnishing, and everything for household drapery; and therefore intending buyers should be well advised to pay Messrs. Fitch and Company's shops a visit. There is also a special display of goods suitable for presents from 6s. to 10s. A show is being made of ladies' evening and day gowns and other dainty materials for blouses will strongly appeal to the lady visitors. In other departments they show a splendid selection of gloves, silk and fancy handkerchiefs, lace collars, mufflers, satinetts, umbrellas, tray and tea cloths, etc. In the millinery department all the latest creations will be on view; and the large store is sure to be in-stock of muffs and furs is sure to be in-stock more than indicate the general character of the goods. We are asked to state that visitors are invited to walk through the extensive showrooms and inspect the goods.

MESSRS. E. AND W. H. ROSE. Messrs. E. and W. H. Rose again offer their special Christmas hampers; these hampers are so well known that they need no recommendation of ours. The 21s. hamper contains seven bottles of fine matured spirits, and the 10s. 6d. hamper contains five—these will be sent carriage paid. The popularity of these hampers is so widespread that there is sure to be a great demand for them this Christmas.

MESSRS. J. TONKS AND SONS, SCARBOROUGH. Everybody familiar with Scarborough knows that the windows of Messrs. Tonks and Sons always call a halt in one's parade of the town's principal shopping street and compel attention by their display of attractive furniture and decorations. The latest acquisitions in the line of up-to-date requirements are an adequate attention to two distinct considerations. One is "creature comfort," as it is often called, and this may be secured by, for instance, making easy chairs that are really "easy," and giving them generous padding and cushions. But in order for a room to be comfortable in a complete sense it must be pleasing to the eye, and this well-known Scarborough firm have therefore strong justification for attaching the great importance which they evidently do to the subject of design in their displays. It is the characteristic mark of their displays, and at Christmas time they may be relied upon to offer goods of real artistic value.

MESSRS. WRAY AND THOMPSON. This well-known firm have made their shops in Wheelgate, Malton, and Church-st., Norton, replete for the festive season. It is surprising what useful presents can be purchased at either of these shops. They have a splendid show of brushes, combs, toilet cases, fancy soaps, etc. For those who wish to make a more expensive present, they can supply a beautiful hand or slung camera, in fact all photographic requirements are kept in stock. Then they have all the latest in "cold-vests." They also manufacture mineral waters of every kind, and their ginger ale is a real winter speciality. Customers can also be supplied with the best brands of wines and spirits.

MESSRS. B. LEEFE AND SON. It is not without full justification that Messrs. B. Leeffe and Son announce that their stock of jewellery and goods suitable for presents is the largest and choicest in the neighbourhood. Only a cursory glance at the windows at "the old establishment" in Market-place is needed to convince that the claim is an accurate one. The window displays, although tasteful and comprehensive in character, are of large assortment of articles are to be found inside, and deserving of special mention is the department devoted to toys. Presents suitable for all members of the family are shown in charming variety. Children's toys and Christmas tree decorations are a feature.

MESSRS. RUSSELLS AND WRANGHAM. Their old-established firm have made up some really tempting Christmas hampers. There is A and B, and under this section the purchaser has the choice of selecting a five-bottle hamper: the C and D are the 26s. ones, and some guaranteed old liquors are included: while the 26s. hamper, which is on a larger scale, is sure to be eagerly bought up. They have also their specialities in Christmas ales and stouts.

THE CEYLON CAFE. Sweets and nuts for the children's stockings, fruits for dessert, biscuits, crackers for evening parties, and all other dainties which go to make Christmas a "time of good cheer" cannot be bought anywhere better than at the Ceylon Cafe, Castlegate, Malton.

MESSRS. LONGSTER AND SONS. At the old-established firm of Messrs. G. Longster and Sons, there is the usual Christmas show, their windows containing a tempting display of choice fruits, nuts, etc., and they are also showing some lovely evergreen wreaths and crosses. They have a splendid lot of flowers, etc., suitable for church decoration. Their displays at both the Yorkgate and Wheelgate establishments are well worth seeing.

MR. C. GALTRY. The window of Mr. C. Galtry's shop in Wheelgate is well arranged. There is a large and well-chosen exhibition of tea, caps, gloves, and other articles suitable for presents. There are also on show fancy waistcoats, and all the latest patterns in gentlemen's suitings and overcoats. The establishment can be described in a sentence as being remarkably well equipped.

MESSRS. LEATHAM AND CO. Have an exceptionally good show of winter shoes and slippers, dress and party shoes, smart and fashionable boots, and shoes of all descriptions and for all purposes. There is also a large variety of slippers, tastefully selected, which are sure to appeal to those who are bent on getting a good, serviceable article at a reasonable price. They have a large stock of leggings, gaiters, snowboots, and overboots to choose from.

SEDMAN'S. At Sedman's, Saville-st., can be secured men's, youths', and boys' clothing of every description, and ladies' coats and costumes in any style or quality. Every description of household drapery is included in the stock.

STIRLING'S, LTD. The windows of Messrs. Stirling's, Ltd., under the clock, are always well arranged, so that in saying that the displays are specially worth seeing just now is the highest compliment that can be paid.

MR. INMAN. Mr. Inman, Yorkgate, has on view a large assortment of furniture, etc., which would form useful presents.

MR. T. MENNELL. Mr. T. Menzell, Market-place, shows an attractive display of leather and fancy goods. Especially noticeable are the fitted dressing-cases, which should be in much demand for presents.

MR. J. W. CLOUGH. Mr. J. W. Clough, Market-place, has an excellent display of boots and shoes; he is agent for the "Globe" and "Lady" brand of boots. The window shows are specially attractive with some splendid lines in dress and party shoes.

MR. J. S. NORTH. Goods suitable for presents are shown in useful variety at Mr. J. S. North's, High-side, Market-place.
